THAT COLLEGE BOY.

The old-fashioned daddy sizes up his college-bred son thusly:

"He can rattle off the Latin nouns.
Can conjugate the verbs.
Can string a regular array out
Of dictionary words;
But I saw I couldn't help it.
I just had to roar and laugh.
When I saw him take big ears of corn
To feed a sucking calf."

Personal Mention.

If you have friends visiting you, or if you are going away on a visit, please drop us a note to that effect.

IN DANVILLE AT HIGH NOON

The Marriage of Miss Zorayda Welsh and Mr. W. D. Cochran is Celebrated.

The marriage of Miss Zorayda Y. Welsh, the accomplished daughter of Mr. G. W. Welsh, Jr., of Danville, to Mr. William D. Cochran of this city was celebrated at the residence of the bride's parents at high noon Wednesday. Rev. C. B. H. Martin, D. D., of the Second Presbyterian Church, Danville, was the officiating minister.

The interior of the house was beautifully decorated for the occasion by Bell, the Lexington florist. The young people entered the parlor accompanied by Mr. James H. Cochran, twin brother of the groom, and Miss Mary Welsh, the bride's sister, and preceded by two beautiful little girls, Jane, Welsh a cousin of the bride, and Hattie Cochran, a niece of the groom. During the ceremony Rocco Fero, the celebrated harpist of Cincinnati, rendered an appropriate melody from Weber.

An elegant luncheon was served after the ceremony.

Mr. Cochran graduated from Center College four years ago, and afterward from the Law Department of Ann Arbor University. He is one of the most promising of the younger members of the Mason County Bar.

Among the guests were Hon. R. A. Cochran, Sr., R. A. Cochran, Jr., Mrs. Horace January, James Cochran, A. M. J. Cochran, H. C. Curran and Miss Finch, of this city; Miss Kemper of Cincinnati; Misses Veech and Leathers of Louisville; Mrs. Sommers, Washington, D. C.; Miss Payne of Lexington; Miss Letcher of Richmond, and Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Payne of Elizabethtown.

Mr. and Mrs. Cochran arrived in Maysville last evening, and will make their home with R. A. Cochran, Sr. and wife. None of their friends extends to them heartier congratulations than THE PUBLIC LEDGER.

The other members of the bridal party returned yesterday morning.

THE Prohibitionists are talking about changing their party name. Prohibition, they say, is not the thing they are after, but suppression.

ASHLAND is as yet "talking" of a street railroad; Maysville has one, and as good as any in the Union—steel rails and vestibuled electric cars. Come down, good friends, and have your letters delivered at your doors.

ZEKE SMITH, the youngster who raised such a disturbance at the old Daulton house night before last, was let go by Marshal Hefflin yesterday on the promise of his mother that the whole family would leave town.

THE gorge of logs jammed against the C. and O. bridge at Guyandotte is still unmoved, with little hope of dislodging it before another rise. It would be burned but for the proximity of the bridge.

ELDER W. H. HULL is moving his household goods from Ashland to his old home near Maysville, says THE Signal. He will go down with his goods, but expects to return in a few days. Mrs. Hull has been there on a visit for several weeks.

JAMES N. KEOH has received from Hon. C. B. Poyntz several packages of white seed corn for distribution among Mason county farmers and will gladly furnish some to all who may wish to try it. Call at his office corner Third and Sutton streets and get a sample.

THE Sixteenth Kentucky Infantry was at the following places on the days mentioned below:
April 29th, 1862, Camp Brownlow, Ky.
April 29th, 1863, Lebanon, Ky.
April 29th, 1864, Point Burnside, Ky.
April 29th, 1865, Raleigh, N. C.

SPEAKING of the decorations at Huntington, W. Va., on the occasion of the recent Oddfellows celebration, THE Herald says: "The handsomest part was the emblem of the I. O. O. F., the three links, which was made at Maysville, Ky., and composed of natural flowers."

S. B. OLDMAN the Maysville plumber, says THE Maysville Times-Democrat has completed the work on our county jail and those who have examined the job pronounce it a first-class one in every respect. Mr. Oldman is well equipped for all work in his line, and those desiring work done should call on or address him in regard to it.

THE MASON CIRCUIT COURT.

Gleanings From Late Yesterday's and Early To-day's Docket.

Thomas Columbia vs. W. L. Moran; motion to dismiss the appeal overruled. Court adjourned at noon until this morning.

Arguments in the Tolle-Cooper slander suit were begun this morning. There will be four speeches, two on each side.

THE supper given by the Rebekah Lodge at Ashland was a splendid success.

HON. ROLLA HART of Fleming county is out in a well-written card stating that he will not oppose Congressman Paynter for the nomination as Democratic candidate for Congress.

THE suit of the Bourbon county parties against Colonel W. W. Baldwin in the matter of the Millersburg tollgate was decided at Carlisle yesterday afternoon, the Court deciding in favor of Colonel Baldwin "from start to finish."

BROTHER MILLER of THE Ashland News calls us pet names and intimates that we are "wrothy" because of something he said. Not so, Brother; our liver was never in better working order, thanks to a daily allopathic dose of NEWS. It's a splendid laxative.

W. H. WILSON has sold on private terms to D. T. Buffington of Florence the great young stallion, Oscar Williams, two years old, by Simmons, dam Lottie Thorne, record 2:34, second dam the dam of Byerly Abdallah, sire of Jerome Turner, record 2:15.

A WOMAN living in the First Ward told the other day that her husband had seduced two of their daughters and that she had to keep a third in bed with her at night to keep the brute from ruining her. This same party was referred to once before in these columns.

Mr. Proctor All Right.

Somebody—evidently a jealous party—has been circulating reports calculated to injure Hon. John R. Proctor, State Geologist. Mr. Proctor is a Mason county man, and we are glad to see that he has some staunch defenders. The official state organ has this to say:

Frankfort Capital.—Mr. Proctor states that, under the old law, in force when he took charge of the Survey, he was entitled to $10 per day, but, as a matter of fact, owing to the small appropriation for the work, he voluntarily relinquished a portion of his salary, the amount thus released during four years being $3,000 to which he was clearly entitled, and the failure to draw which constituted a gift of that sum to the necessities of the Survey. As for the disbursements for, and the accounts of the Survey, they are made and kept, not by him, but by the Auditor, and like the other accounts of that office, they are open to the inspection of all who have a right to call for them.

ONE MOTHER'S LOVE AND LIFE.

Mrs. Ella Bramble Sacrifices Her All for Her Three Little Ones.

A sad funeral service took place at the City Hospital, Cincinnati, over the body of Mrs. Ella Bramble, who died at that institution. The poor woman laid down her life for her children, who sat beside her bier weeping as though their hearts would break.

Several weeks ago she took her first child to the institution suffering from a dreadful hereditary disease. She said that her husband was out of work and that they were almost destitute. Her own hard hands told her tale of woe.

She was bred a simple child of the country near Maysville, and had gone to Cincinnati shortly before her marriage. Three lovely children came to bless the union, and life was as musical as a wedding bell's chimes till disease struck down Mr. Bramble, the mainstay of the family, and she had to go to work.

Through the neglect that was made necessary a disease broke out over one of her children, whom she took to the hospital. Then she came with another and a third, sobbing as if her heart would break. She had staid awake days and nights trying to soothe their anguish, but in vain.

Last of all came she, sanctified by her trials, and was sent to the typhoid fever ward. Though she longed for her young ones she never murmured because she was not allowed to see them, as she knew she was in the last stages of a contagious disease. Breathing a blessing upon them she quietly passed away, and the nurses, struck by her heroism, gathered round her and paid the tribute of silent tears. Midst all the hundreds of cases they have charge of this one touched them most.

To save her remains from the potter's field the Union Bethel was notified of her death and the authorities promised Christian burial. However, her broken hearted father claimed the body, and it was turned over to him. He cried as if his heart would break as he recounted her numerous virtues. Her children were brought down from the wards by order of Superintendent McLean to take a last sad look at their parent, finally released from her long suffering. Then the remains were taken away.

AMONG the industries that have made great strides in the recent past, none have made greater than the manufacturers of clothing. We are strongly reminded of this fact by noticing the display of goods in Hechinger & Co.'s show-windows. Until the matter was explained to us by the proprietors of the great Oddfellows Hall Clothing Store, we did not know that goods of such fine character were sold already made. As we understand it, there are several large manufacturers in the East who make a specialty of manufacturing nothing but strictly fine clothing, employing only custom tailors to make them. Messrs. Hechinger & Co., appreciating their trade here, took hold of these fine lines, and the large sales they have on them shows the wisdom in merchants to handle the best the market produces.

ACTORS BURNED.

The Philadelphia Theater Fire a Holocaust.

The Play House and the Times Building Only a Smoking Shell.

Three Score of the Spectators Lying Now in Hospitals, Fatally Burned and Dead Beneath the Company's Life.

PHILADELPHIA, April 29.—The destruction of the Grand Central theater by fire Wednesday night proved to have been far more terrible in its results than was anticipated. Six members of the Devil's Auction company lie dead beneath the fallen walls of the building, and nearly three score people are in the hospital suffering from burns. Of the men and boys in the hospital seven are in such a serious condition that their recovery is doubtful. All were members of the audience. Besides those who were seriously enough hurt to remain in the hospital, fully fifty others were treated for minor injuries. The unfortunate members of the company who lost their lives are:

Thos. Lorella, grotesque, and his wife Flora, a ballet dancer; Vincenza Chitten, premier danseuse, one of the Chitten sisters; Miss Fanchon Conyers, juvenile, residence Chicago; Miss Sarah Golden, ballet dancer, residence Chicago; Wm. L. Brooks, leading man of the company, residence Philadelphia.

The injured in the hospitals who are likely to die are all suffering from burns about the face and head, and from having inhaled the flames.

In addition to the serious condition of the injured, it is feared that many will lose their eyesight, as their burns are all mostly about the face. By the light of day the destruction wrought by the fire was made more apparent and the desolation of the scene seemed more terrible, as it was without the accompanying grandeur given by columns of flames shooting skyward above the tallest buildings. The ruin of the Central theater is complete, only the front wall remaining standing. The other walls have fallen in and fill the place they formerly enclosed. Directly back of the theater but a shell remains of the eight-story building occupied by the Times. The row of stores to the east of the two burned structures and facing on Eighth street, and extending from Walnut to Sansom streets, are almost completely gutted by fire and water. Wednesday night's estimate, placing the loss at $1,000,000, is about correct.

Two additional missing were reported Thursday night, making nine people who can not be accounted for since the fire. The last are: George E. Thatcher, a machinist, and Frederick Ampher, twelve years old, of Manayunk, who left home to attend the Central theater, and has failed to return since.

BOMBS READY

On Every Hand to Deal Horrid Death—Concerted Action by Anarchists May Day Feared.

BRUSSELS, April 29.—Orders have been issued from the war office for the mobilization of the national guard in anticipation of May day riots. The police have learned that riotous demonstrations have been planned in Leigh, Antwerp, and this city. The garrison in this city has been strengthened this week.

ROME, April 29.—The police in Turin seized several bundles of May Day posters and pamphlets in Turin. Compromising letters were found in an anarchist's room. They proved the existence of a plan of concerted action on May Day in most of the larger Italian cities. In each city certain anarchists have been chosen by lot to throw bombs. Several arrests have been made.

PARIS, April 29.—At Laon, in the department of Aisne, a railway station found a package of five dynamite cartridges in the cab holding the coals. The fire under the boiler was extinguished at once, and the locomotive was switched on a side track.

The train to which the locomotive was attached is an express, and was carrying forty-five passengers. The cartridges were sufficient to blow the locomotive and cab to atoms, and had they been exploded, probably few of the passengers would have escaped death.

Flags Over Post Offices.

WASHINGTON, April 29.—All of the employees of the Goshen (Ind.) post office lately joined the postmaster in contributing a fine 6 by 10 flag, with a staff, to be placed over the entrance of the office. The display of flags at post-offices, as requested by the postmaster-general some time ago, has become general, and a favorite method seems to be for the employees to unite in defraying the cost of putting them up.

For Pittsburgh's Ship Canal.

WASHINGTON, April 29.—The house committee on railways and canals Thursday authorized a favorable report on Representative Dalzell's bill appropriating $40,000 to pay the expenses of a survey of a route for a ship canal to connect the waters of Lake Erie from a point at or near Erie, Pa., with the Ohio river at or near Pittsburgh.

Frozen to Death.

WINNIPEG, Manitoba, April 29.—Geo. E. Sumbly, a blacksmith, was found frozen to death near Reaburn Wednesday night. The storm continues, and fear is felt for the safety of vessels on Lake Superior.

An Aged Suicide.

KEYPORT, N. J., April 29.—James A. Lake, an eccentric farmer aged 71 years, committed suicide at his home in Holmdel by shooting himself. He was very wealthy.

Lumber Mills Shut Down.

LACROSSE, Wis., April 29.—Every lumber mill in the Lacrosse district closed down Thursday, to remain so until the labor troubles are settled. Two thousand men are out of employment in consequence.
